Your Attention, Please

Your attention is directed to the very attractive program at the annual meeting of the Colorado Bar Association. British Consul Frank Ongley Darvall is an excellent speaker, having been a member of the British universities' debating team while a student at Cambridge. As head of the British Information Office for the U. S. in London during the recent war, he is well qualified to discuss his subject, "Britain's Role in the Post War World." The discussion of taxes by William R. Kelly and Thomas L. Girault, Chief Field Deputy in the Collector's Office, Denver, should be of great interest to all. On Friday evening, at 8:00 o'clock, the El Paso County Bar Association will put on a special entertainment and mixer. Although we have not yet been let in on what it will consist of, we know, from past experience, it will be well worth participating in. C. H. Babcock is chairman of the entertainment committee and Thomas M. Burgess is president of the association. The Law Club assures us that the program for the Friday luncheon will be up to the usual Law Club style, which means that only the lame, the halt and the blind will want to miss that. The section and committee meetings on Friday morning will embody programs of interest to their members. The Probate and Trust Law Section will meet with the Real Estate Standards Committee and will discuss the effect on titles of the 1945 probate amendments, among other things.

The District Judges' Association will meet Thursday and have a very interesting program lined up. Inasmuch as the district judges will all be in Colorado Springs Friday morning to greet the members of the bar, there's no point in any lawyer staying home Friday to see a district judge.

All persons who register at the Antlers or Acacia Hotel are expected to take part in all events at the Broadmoor, including the extra-curricular activities not listed in the printed program.
